Let me get this straight...

You come onto the forums, decide to laugh at my clanmates, for no apparent reason. Then when we go, OK, if you're so good, let's play a sniping match. You accept the challenge (loose meaning, because I believe you have no intention of actually playing it), and we give you the means to make it happen.

BiGN00BLoGIf you want a game you can msn me, post it @ clanwars or here I guess,Im not regestering at another forum to set-up a fucking game that you guys won't even play in.

Right... why don't you come up with another lame excuse to dodge? I think I've heard this one before.

And Spooky, I respect you, as well as for trying to stick up for your friend. But I don't respect people who show blatant disregard for players or their clans, and I think with the way the Renegade community is dwindling (heck, looking at the forum members, half of them don't even play Renegade anymore), this kind of attitude is uncalled for.
