tooncyicedog90You'll get better.

I played about 6 hours yesterday, 2 the day before, and I still suck. I can't keep a positive ratio. I also hate how I can have a person at point blank distance with their head in my crosshairs, start unloading on them, and not even land a shot. Then I go and see a person with their crosshairs 3 CM to the left of someone unload and clear out a room.

CS is not a n00b game like Renegade were you get good after one day of playing. It has things you have to get used to before you can even begin to start getting leet, you must adjust to the gameplay for one, which is different from any other game out there, the maps are finley detailed and not small go this way or this way and BANG the enemey WILL be there as in Ren, the recoil of guns and the amount of guns that are going to be used against you.

It'll take a while, i sucked for about the first month and i was baout ready to stop playing back when i started 3 years ago, then something clicked and i just got ithe hang of it
