cowmisfitDave, when did they stab anyone in the back?? RIGHT NOW THEY ARE, your a forigner so i wouldn't expect you to understand this concept with out an argument, but what do you call right now?? There supposed to be our allie, if 3000 of there citizins were killed we'd follow and back them 100% becasue we are there ALLIE, it happens to american and they pretty much say shuv it until we can get something out of it. You can bitch and moan all you want about the french people not hating us, but you can't deny the french goverment hates our goverment and would trully love to see America crumble. Guess what, were not gonna let your nations stop us from defending us, if you can't get the concept of hit before your hit first then die.

France is your ally. They were in Afghanistan, and appropriately working with the Afghani coalition to deal with the man who took those 3000 lives.

Quote:As soon as United Nations Security Council Resolution 1378 was issued on 18 October 2001, France forces were sent in Afghanistan... In total, some 5,500 French service members were sent to the region

France had no obligation to assist you in your Iraq war. It had nothing to do with 9/11 and Saddam was still under his sanctions. It is irrelevant that what we know now portrays people in the French government in a suspicious light. In March 2003, you knew no such thing and went to war illegally anyway.
