NodServntYou would be very suprised at how much skills' some would have to put into it to NOT geting caught... However you would be an easy one to catch.. Duh! I catch cheaters' day in, and day out... Like I tell people, I only like cheaters' for one reason, because I like the "hunting/catching". To me it is a hobbie, and a thrill at the same time. I been doing it for several games' for a while now.

KenOf course I wasn't really attempting to be overly sneaky. I only wanted to make a few minutes of video so if I were kicked then oh well. There was no airstrip in that game so I had to demonstrate the instakill ability by shooting infantry.

I suppose if I had actually wanted to remain I would do a few things: not kill infantry instantly, stay much farther away from the epicenter of action, do much less offensive activity overall and instead focus mainly on instarepairing.
