Think of it this way: you're a fifteen year old, Renegade-playing boy, and some seventeen year old girl goes, "Oh hey, you live in Boston, so do I!" You play together for a bit, get to know each other, she suggests a meeting. Now being a fifteen year old boy, a chick invites you somewhere that seems to have everything in common with you, you'll bite at the chance. You make plans to meet, go to some restaurant, she doesn't show up, but this weird thirty year old man sits down instead.

Now if that's not creepy... well, I can understand the ban.
