=[DT=gbull=[L]=]now now, I thought you didnt like to call people names Java? and wasnt it you that told me not to weasel out of things by trying to justify something by making things up? I never said anything about point blank, so that would make you the person making shit up, and I must say, you need a bigger toilet.

I call people names all the time. That has just about no bearing on this discussion, though, so why bring it up? You misunderstand, you DID make something up. You made up a scenario to coincide with your little fantasy in your head AFTER the matter of fact in order to weasel out of the CQC argument that fell properly in line with the "hold a gun to your head" argument. (Which was already picked apart, because holding a gun to your head and pointing a gun at you from 10 feet away [like you meant but didn't say] are two entirely different things).

I didn't say anything about point blank either.
