Yeah I understand what you said but it seems to not want to create a copy of the edges when I click extrude with the 0.00001 value. If i change tools from the tool that comes up after hitting the extrude button then it will move the existing edges. If i use the tool that appears after clicking the extrude button it will not let me drag upwards when i have restrict to Z axis on. It will let me drag across the Y axis. I could capture a video using snagit if i had somewhere to upload to.
