
Subject: Oh yes.

Posted by Kytten9 on Fri, 18 Feb 2005 00:41:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

JavaxcxKytten9"one man's terrorist is another man's freedom fighter".

Not necessarily true. A terrorist is anyone who tries to unlawfully impose a culture or ideal on someone else through violent means. So while the state of mind of someone may say "he's a freedom fighter for such and such reasons, lets join him!", the freedom fighter is also likely (but not necessarily) a terrorist too.

Ya, but for the main part it is. I live in Manchester England and i was in the city in 1996 when the IRA bombed it....They to me are terrorists, but to many in Ireland they were lashing out against a restricting and invading government that was (as far as they were concerned) intruders, dictators and unwelcome "authority figures" invading their country and telling them how to lead their lives and what they could and couldnt do...If i remember correctly, didnt Hitler do the same in WWII and when we defeated him we called it freedom fighting....(Also reminds me of another proverb: To the Victor go the spoils...The worlds History is written by those who win) :lookround:
