I think he deserves it. He must have some real business skills to become the world's richest man. Plus he already donates millions upon millions to charities. He is a very generous person. In fact, his kids are only going to get 0.02% of his wealth when he dies. Thats about $10 million.

There was talk of revamping the knighthood system last summer. He isn't a British citizen though, so he's not going to be caled "Sir Bill Gates."
