Renardin6warrantoIF this were to ever make it to court, and IF a judgment were to occur in renardin's favor, the mitigating circumstances would be that it was not a protected area, simply hidden. That would have the same effect as the judge laughing at someone who had their car stolen because they thought that by leaving it unlocked, it was safe.

Thx for this, so because the car was unlocked... the steal would be legal ? :rolleyes: KTHX.

I never, in that entire post ONCE mentioned the word "legal". :rolleyes:
