Oh really? I'm sure there's plenty of quotes where you weren't an ass which I could dig up from your forum. Remember the "You can swear without going overboard" rules you made up, but then subsequently changed within six months?

Oh, what about where you decide it's better to be nice than be an ass, except where I'm involved.

Bringing up year old quotes is supposed to prove what, now? That you believe we're all supposed to be static and hold the same beliefs as we did a year ago? Watch what you say, because someone over the Internet will tell you that you're taking away their freedom of speech by contradicting yourself!
