seriously now...

I'm pretty sure that the advertisers on Fox news, know that they are an openly, right leaning news organization... Meaning that they are already WELL aware that at least 150 million people in the country despise them, and will never watch.

As soon as more that that number are sold, they just might start rethinking where their advertisement dollars are going. But if that ever happens, it'll just be the inventor who is laughing at everyone, not the Dem's laughing at Fox.
