
Subject: Tribute to Terry Shiavo

Posted by cheesesoda on Fri, 01 Apr 2005 00:03:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What ego? Didn't you forget "or lack thereof"? :rolleyes: I'd love to see where you came to that conclusion. You obviously didn't understand the reasoning behind that point, and I'm not even going to bother trying to explain it to you. It's clear as day.

SFE:

No, I'm not going to argue it because I don't have proof to say otherwise. I may believe that she did have feeling and could see, but until I have proof for it, I'm not going to assume I'm right.

From what I can see, my parents are being suckered into a deal that I don't see necessary, and they're wanting an approximate $25,000 from this whole ordeal. While I don't see those people necessarily as "bad", but I don't see their intentions being set correctly. I mean, I know for a fact that my dad's procedures of business do not require $25k in time and utilities for them to be fixed. Same for Mr. Shiavo. I'm not denying that he loved her (or at least did some years before), but I don't think his heart was in the right place. I mean, he had a semi-living wife for 15 years, yet he still slept with another woman enough to get her pregnant with 2 kids. I honestly can't see sincerity in that man.

Lying in court isn't completely uncommon. If the story's water-tight then they can easily get away with it.
