

---

Subject: How did this get passed?

Posted by Aircraftkiller on Sun, 03 Apr 2005 11:33:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Quote:Why, yes, it would be hard to have modern conservatives, if "neocons" followed traditional political concepts and values at all. The majority of the Republicans in the last 15-20 years are conservative by name only. Hence neocon.

Just so you know, fascism was really started by Benito Mussolini, with the creation of the Fascist Party in 1919, which Hitler then copied. Mussolini was a socialist as well, but the point is irrelevant. While fascist nations may be founded on liberal ideas of progress, they don't hesitate to recognize themselves as anti-liberal. Fascists before World War II in Italy and Germany were undoubtedly anti-Communist.

If anything, neocons are trying to develop fascism in America. Let's go over a definition...

Lets not, because Hitler was a liberal by today's definition of the word and he espoused liberal ideology. His regime was almost identical to communism, and I know many people just like you would have been singing his praise today had he kept Europe.

It doesn't matter if they were anti-communist because they had the SAME BELIEFS. The same worker's paradise, the same social programs, the same system of denying your rights in the interest of the common good.

Just like you would have others do to this nation. STFU you fucking retard.

---