That's just vector art. All you need is a high rez pic with a good light source, three layers, black, white, the polygon lasso tool... and that's it. It's the only sort of art I like these days, my hands are still good enough to trace and, to fix my own crude drawings. I always end up with something nice.

Heres some other random pics I made just because I was board, I even did one of LowTax.

If you want tut I can dig one up by a nice girl called InvisibleMonkey. There is no one better then her.

Edit-for size and loading time. although the pics just don't look right so scrunched up.
