IRON FART, the only person here who ever tries (and consistently fails) to sound smarter than he really is is SuperFlyingLiberalFucktard. I have never tried to "sound smart" simply to give my arguments more substance like he does all the time. If you have ever read just about anything he has ever written in this forum, and if you can't see that, you're almost as blind to reality and devoid of as much common sense as he is.

I'm a liberal myself, and from my point of view, SFE seems like an overly analytical and paranoid sort of liberal. That is all. No more, no less.

Calling him a liberal fucktard or a "Tool" (preffered word of many) does not help the situation. People here have called him names like this and made jokes about his father like this so many times that it has totally lost its effect by now. From what I see, SFE has matured and learnt to ignore people namecalling and heckling him. Maybe some others here should mature and stop namecalling.

Namecalling does not make you sound smarter or make your argument valid.

I'm a liberal, at least apparently, for my views on the war on Iraq... I was one until Paul Martin(z?) screwed everything up... >_<
