Hold on, 1mb upload speed is lousy? I don't know about actually testing my speed but I know my download speed has never passed 98k/sec and the official line from NTL means I should have an upload speed of 70k/sec, yet I've not seen that go above 10...

Am I missing some minor detail or should you guys stop complaining? Or is a 600k broadband connection somewhat poo outside the UK?
