Regarding the Hot topics forum, the only change in moderation will be on limiting how far the insults go. Considering the nature of the topics, some insult will be allowed, as long as it isn't too extreme, and retains the original topic.
ie.

"You're a complete idiot to think that the change in moderation will be a good thing," will be more acceptable than, "You're so stupid you thought 'see store for details' meant to go and look at the store."

Regarding the "OT:" topics, anything like that is fine as long as it remains within the Registration Agreement Terms. Of course, anything within that topic must remain on that topic.
