But overall the female is usually the one to shoulder the burden. My best friend just had a baby on Sunday and she's been married for a few years... it's hard work even with the two of them. I can't fathom why people are stupid and get pregnant when they're not ready. I have another friend who planned a pregnancy with her boyfriend. Like, if the guy isn't going to commit to marriage, don't be surprised when he wants nothing to do with his daughter.
