IRON FARTMrBob - We got into some religious debates in the Politics forums - Again, no hard feelings.

Oh yea, now I remember (maybe). No hard feelings either. Remember, God still loves you.

gbull You were the only "liberal" I could stand.

Ditto. Probably because he wasn't just interested in politics. Focusing on politics too much wears your body, dopes your mind, and dangerously raises your blood pressure. I know the feeling, I was an "activist" myself. Maybe another "liberal" (hint hint) could be a little less involved.

I can't believe I still come here every once in while. I've been WIndows-free for almost a year. Heck, I don't even play games anymore. It's the community that's keeping me here. But as you said, it's dying out. How long can a game last? It was released in 2001, and we're still here pushing four years. I think many people here have a greater common interest than a game. It's sad to see you go Iron.

By the way, you want a blog? I've been trying to find a use for it. C'mon, every liberal needs a blog.
