

---

Subject: My opinion about Renguard.

Posted by Xtrm2Matt on Wed, 11 May 2005 19:38:05 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The point he is making is that you are now more or less forced to install a 3rd party program to play on a server released by community members. I don't see how this is fair.. for instance, as he has said already, if you choose not to install RenGuard, or do not know about it, and you are generally a good player at (example) Sniping, people become pissy, !rgblahblah blah you then !forcerg blahblah you, if your not running this program then boom, your gone.

The fact is that most servers use RenGuard now so theres nothing you can do about it. I havern't agreed with RenGuard from the start and before it was released but thats just using my own knowledge and knowing what people can put into these types of programs without you knowing (for example, you let it access the internet as you think it's merely contacting a server to say you logged on, but as you have gained it the right to access the internet, it could, for all you know, be a keylogger).

The problem now is what to do about it. It's quite simple really.. either play without RenGuard or move onto another game. Lets face it, another few months and this game will be dead except the odd 10 players playing at a time.

Thats my opinion.. if you don't like it then deal with it.

---