thats the problem with windows xp... allways f..... something up when i installed the arcade gamespy not so long ago, i could not log in as rammstein as i used to do, but i had to create a new name so i am called rammsteIn on gamespy, if i had windows 98 i am sure i would not have that problem.

if you have time you could REMOVE it ALL, make sure there are no files left (uninstall don't remove it all) then when you are sure there are no file in gamespy, westwood or rg, you can install it and it should work...

worked for me when i had a looked like problem
