i'd have to aggree..

i cant belive that the pro's that get paid grands to put put together professinol sites for companys are using notpad lol dreamweaver with cold fusion, flash and photoshop is my pick for pro site building - learning them all is another thing lol inless you know how to code with asp/php.. and have some other style of database goin like sql