

---

Subject: Do You Think Fighting For President Bush Is Worth Your Life?

Posted by bigejoe14 on Wed, 25 May 2005 07:29:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Quote:The concept of rival clans vying for internal power seems entirely foreign to you. Have you never taken a high school history course?

If any "rival clans" try to fight for the control of Iraq, they will come from the surrounding countries around Iraq. That's not really Civil War. Everything has been pretty damn nice within Iraq and it's citizens. The terrorists from the outside are the ones mucking it up for everyone else.

Quote: Now there's so much RDx around Iraq that anyone can make a roadside bomb of devastating force.

How would you know it's in Iraq? It could be inside Iran, Cuba, or Russia for all you know.

Quote: And Bush took no steps AT ALL to protect it.

Sorta like how Clinton sold U.S. Military intelligence to China to get campaign funds?

Quote:RDx won't go away if we give it time.

Another excuse. If you're so worried about some crappy explosives, care to tell how you would like to take care of it?

Quote:Please. That Newsweek story has been circulating for a year and a half in the Middle East. Their running of that story in no way caused a riot.

Bullshit, You know that story caused all that violence. You're just trying to defend your liberal spin machine. Who cares if it's been running for a year? It still caused all kinds of problems. Newsweek published that story with no confirmation whatsoever. A stupid move that cost innocent lives. I cannot believe you're trying to defend that piece of crap.

---