

---

Subject: Why every damn topic turn into a reborn BASHER?

Posted by uurmek on Fri, 27 May 2005 03:11:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Wow, you do pick fights quickly don't you? Okay, I'll bite.

AircraftkillerIntelligence has little to do with disliking something with a passion.

No, I judge intelligence based on how people act, and all I was saying was I see people acting like 12 year olds.

AircraftkillerI'm sure there's something out there you've badgered constantly; that doesn't mean you're stupid.

It's not stupid to fight for a cause, which I understand. However what you're doing is nearly an annoyance, you dislike someone and so you badger them to try and get them to stop, to humiliate them, or simply because you find it fun. I did this too, when I was 10. Since then I've learned that if you disagree with someone it is best to state your point and only continue the argument if it is something you believe is worthwhile, however notice how I say "argue," not "act like a whiny bitch."

AircraftkillerI personally you as being stupid for judging people's intelligence based on how much they dislike something.

Nowhere did I ever say you were stupid, I was not specific in naming anyone anywhere in the three posts I've made here. I never said anyone was stupid for disliking something, I dislike black beans and rap, but I'm not an idiot for doing so nor do I consider those who do as being unintelligent. What I find unintelligent is consistent bickering and a general lack of maturity that I have seen in a couple threads around here. Basically, you're not stupid, you just aren't mature either.

---