CyberPunk today you have targeted amoungst others the EC AOW Server they have done nothing against you ever there was no justification for you doing this apart from seeing that it was fairly full. What you may not know is that this is a relatively new clan trying to get into this Renegade community and by doing what you have done you are stopping them completely. They struggled to get a box and now have and because of your spite you have been taking it down all day. Can you please make some kind of truce and target people you deem to be your enemies not people who have most people in their servers or this community will get even smaller than it is now. If you want to pick on someone try and pick on nopic or another one of your enemies please leave small clan servers alone.
