
Subject: Re: cyberpunks ip /passwords/nicks

Posted by Dave Anderson on Wed, 08 Jun 2005 18:53:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

J_Ball wrote: You won't reach a truce with him. There is no common sense within that idiot's whole being. He was burned by 2 people, so he's decided to attack every server because of those two people. What's funny is that with all of you pleading for mercy, you're giving him power. It's like those fictional villains who feed off the cries and screams of his victims. The more damage he does, the bigger he gets. CyberPunk is just like that. The only reason why he holds any power over anybody is simply due to the fact that the people give him that power. You want to blame someone for his inflated ego? Blame past and present server owners for giving him that power.

Now, I know the last thing you want is to have your server down, but the only way to fully stop him is to make him bored. The only way you can make him bored is to make him realize how insignificant and powerless he truly is. If he doesn't piss you off then he fails at his goal. You give him no reaction, he'll get bored. Think about it this way:

You put up a small test server, and then learn how to crash it. Of course, this will be fun for the first few times you do it because you're just learning how. Now after the first few times, things get really boring. What's the point in taking down your server anymore? You've proven that you can do it and your friends, but now there's nothing that gives you a rush by doing it. Why is there no excitement out of it? Because there's nothing to gain from it. You can't get a reaction out of yourself or your friends, so what's the point? It's just a waste of time. Now, if you went and made other people frustrated because you're taking down their server, you have something to gain from it. You take away the reaction of the server owners, you then take away what you have to gain. You have nothing to gain, it once again becomes a waste of time.

See the connection? If you don't give CyberPunk a reaction, he has nothing to go on, and even he realizes that there's nothing to gain and is nothing but a waste of time. Stop giving him the desired reaction, and you stop giving him a reason to continue.

Agreed. In my opinion, all this can be stopped very easily. Cyberpunk, who is taking out all his anger on all the wrong people, will soon regret it. The RenGen Team will soon have our Renegade servers up, and if Cyberpunk so as to dares to mess with our server, so god help his soul, he will regret it terribly. Just stop this nonsense. Cyberpunk, GO AWAY. LEAVE THIS COMMUNITY COMPLETELY. YOU SAY YOU HATE THIS COMMUNITY, LEAVE. AND SO GOD HELP YOUR SOUL YOU TOUCH ANY RENGEM SERVER OR ANYONE ELSE'S SERVERS BESIDE THE PEOPLE WHO DID THIS TO YOU, YOU WILL REGRET THIS TERRIBLY AND YOU WILL PAY. JUST LEAVE. Again, TOUCH ANY RENGEM SERVER, AND DIE.
