Makes me wonder how you cyberpunk can actually call anyone else here immature.

(not yet of full growth, not adult" and premature meaning "born too soon, not yet ready for life." The nouns are used technically: immature meaning "not behaving like an adult, being childlike or even childish," as in Her conversation was giggly, girlish, and immature, and premature meaning simply "too soon, before its time," used of all sorts of ideas, propositions, and the like, as in It was an ambitious plan, but premature)

Cyberpunk you should really read the meaning of words before using them, because far as i know you have followed this guideline very tightly.

 You can seriously tell anybody here that were immature for responding to your ludacris awnsers, you just have to see it from our side not yours. You come here stating that your going to go do a full out attack on all of the renegade community, though only 2 people have done little to no harm to you in return. You clearly state this is just rage you have but you should really find another hobby to deal with your problem, dont take it out on game servers please.

 You really should come back and state why exactly it is that your doing this, though i know you have siad 2 people pissed you off, but the real question is did it do any damage? Did it cause you to not be able to play a game you like?

I could care less if a few people pissed me off in a game, this is reality brother get the fuck outside and take a walk to deal with your stress, dont take it out on thousands of people.
