Hard mentally, yes... teaching myself skills that got me a great job. And yet like $14k of my $60k earnings (that's 15%) are going towards whatever bullshit the morons in Congress want to spend it on in order to keep their constituents voting for them. (and yes, that's BOTH parties)
You have 15% taken off, here in Belgium I have about 40-50% taken off for the government. I think you don't need to complain...

Then again we do have a whole social security system and tbh: even if it is far from perfect, it does its purpose in some way. I'm not taking opinions, just explaining things .
