My Girlfriend gets mad at me because I was playing games instead of spending time with her. This was the first chance I've been able to play anything in a week. Anyone else got this problem, or am I alone here?

OK, Player this what you do. Next time you wanna play your vid games, you invite her over, then act like you're interested in what she wants to talk about, then you invite her to play your vid games with you. She's a woman, so she only goes to play for a sec. then you give her a lil sex. After that you should be able to play for a whole 2 days with no complaints. Women nowadays just want to be around the one they love, she'd be happy just to sit there and watch you play the game. Think of it as killing two birds with one stone.

trust me, I've done this to women thousand's of times.
