Well I thought I'd just let people here know my new game I'm working on. Some time ago I said I'd be working on a game (those who remember) and it has evolved in to this - Project 52.

It's a conspiracy storyline, futuristic, role playing hacking/racing game. Basically it's unique and playable online, so you can market car parts and cars and chat to your friends. Only drawback is - game is not released. Although I do release free alpha tests to public regularly and so I thought that I'd let the Renegade community in on my game first.

There are ingame videos available on the site too.
