Just quoting myself from a different thread:

heh, that gives me an idea. We should create a fake site that includes a petition to label all dolls that portray life-like features as an "adult only" toy. Afterall, television, movies and videogames that portray the same thing get a similar rating!

Though to make an addition, perhaps we should send our idea to Mr. Thompson. If video games that blur it are bad, the real toys should be even worse!
