I know how and it does not require a mod. What you must do is first off host a game, Get people in and make sure they are in to stay for good, because once you set it up for editing vehicles you cannot have any more players join the game, because they wont be able to since they only see 1 player in the server list.

Ok so given that you already do have people in your game Open your Renegade data folder and find the file called:

Svrcfg_cnc.ini

Scroll down until you see

MaxPlayers=(the amount you originally set it at)

Now just change the number of Max players to 1. Now find an easy way to goto next map, either being everyone shuffling to one team, or blowing up the base. When the next map loads, the Host only will be able to hop in any vehicle and change the settings.

The only real problem with doing this is that the other players in the game, wont really see all the effects and will be warping around a bit. Other then that i found it pretty fun to make low gravity vehicles and get others to hop in for a joy ride etc.
