

---

Subject: Re: Global Warming: Katrina, Rita, Wilma: Whats next?

Posted by God of Death on Tue, 25 Oct 2005 02:44:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Personally I think people are overreacting a little bit to Global Warming. I think that it may be happening, but at a much slower rate then what some people are saying. It is a known fact that the climate slowly changes from year to year. One winter it can be extremely cold, like it was here in Kansas about three years ago. To being quite mild, like it was last year. One year we can get a lot of storms, while the next year get very little. Climates change. I think of the South Park episode on global warming when I hear people like Barbara Striesand(sp?) talking about it.

---