I am most definantly going to buy it, i will have doubled copies now but im not fussed, i think its good for the c&c community, more people will be playing each of them, and now that XWIS is taking over things are going to be better, i was on Firestorm today and there were alot of people playing it.

Though i do think this is EA's way of giving us something because they probably have not been working on a new c&c.
