almor999 wrote on Fri, 11 November 2005 19:48 Did you do anything before you started having these problems, such as installing a program, updating a driver, etc? Does the problem only occur with ren or has it happened with other applications? Have you done virus and malware scans recently to make sure your computer isn't infected with anything? Maybe try cleaning your registry or running windows update and as light said try running it without any other programs running.

-EDIT-

I just noticed that you have been having this problem for a year. As much as I hate to say it your best bet may be to backup any important data and reinstall windows.

All the virus an spyware, drivers and everything ive done, checked.. Yes ive had this for about a year now.. I recently completey formatted.. everything i had was gone, no backups nothing.. i installed xp pro sp2 and i still get the problem..

EDIT : Yes this only happens with Renegade... I can play FEAR, FarCry AoE3 and it will run without dying on me.
