Hell yes. As I said, think back, to the days when Aircraftkiller actually played and liked Renegade...how many servers did we have? Less than 25! In the past couple of years, places like servermatrix have made dedicated servers so cheap that the number of servers has more than quadrupled, leading to the silly practice of registering server names like "a00000000a" just to be on the top of the list or the first PAGE of servers.

One dedicated server capable of running a decent renegade server costs at LEAST $150/mo, so the combined server owners are spending easily almost 2,000 per month just on renegade servers, not to mention all of the players who are playing on them....that sure as hell doesn't sound "dead" to me.
