I was actually referring to your last sentence, saying "all other countries want a weaker US". TBH: we don't care.

And the fact that you think we even care about what you do within your frontiers makes me laugh. You got death penalty? Nice for you. I'd like us to have it too for some bastards around here.

The one thing I do not agree on is the US wanting to put its big, long nose into the world policy when it could make profit of it but running off its responsibilities when it would cost something (yes, let's take Kyoto as exemple).

But we're going a tiny bit off topic here (a).
