

---

Subject: Re: Good Deal? (computer)

Posted by genetix on Mon, 26 Dec 2005 03:31:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The spec's don't look that bad. When your going for gaming make sure and look for PCI express which I noticed that system has. Another thing to look for is max ram. That system max's at 2 gb which is plenty. So as far as system spec's go its a good machine.

Word of advice. If you buy the machine totally wipe it when first get it. Install a downloaded copy of Windows from the internet(or a boxed version of windows). Make sure and use the same version as the computer comes with so you can use your key. That way you don't get all the extra manufactuer's crap.

I did that to my computer and it runs WAY faster now.

---