I am not saying that a med tank is inferior, and I do agree that it is the best tank in the game. Im just saying that to say that a med tank rules over all is not true, depending on whos driving it will dictate the end result. A light tank can be just as deadly depending on who is at the helm.

Now if you had say the same skill level in both tanks, yes a med would win.

I also agree with the statement about the art and med being the best tanks in the game, arties are often overlooked because of their slow speed and weak armor. However their turnnet power and range is often underated.
