heh, just a random movie-based thought.

According to Hollywood, the armour on the front of a forklift is far greater than the rest of the vehicle (at least when the hero is riding it; he's nearly invulnerable to enemy fire).

What about mimicing that? A bit of front armour to laugh as some guy can't get out of the way in time.

Just a not-so-serious suggestion to give the forklift more anti-infantry appeal.
