The fact he moderates a server has nothing to do with helping the game Renegade. It just has everything to do with helping one server do what others could also do in his place.

I have found that testing is helping even less than RG (which has been bypassed but I'm pretty confident 1.04 will take the job back on). People use right click to cheat, left to not cheat. Or they have this magic button which turns cheats on and off. Good luck with your test then. Basically tests are as bypassed as RG, or even more.

There's only one way to go and that's your nose. Most of the time you can smell cheaters...

It doesn't change the fact that you have a xwis exploiting program AND you have used it. Noone is sure that you spammed a bot or a server. From the picture we saw, noone can tell. One thing is sure: you should take your responsibility for your acts.

I still haven't seen any kind of apology neither. You just try to justify yourself, asking your friends to come and post.
