Everyone is talking about Firefox, Opera, and IE, but no one said how is Netscape safe. I really would like to know.

On my old computer I used IE until it stopped working, so I tried Netscape, and other than large memory usage, it works O.K. Then I tried Firefox, and it worked good (most of the time), except when I tried to download something from the web, it would search the floppy drive first , so I inserted a floppy disk, and after I did this several times, it no longer searched for floppy.

I had one more problem. Firefox sometimes would not detect my Internet connection, so I had to run Netscape in order to browse the Internet, so I stopped using Firefox.

So, how safe is Netscape?
