Only when a med/mamut gets really close, does he have a chance of getting a direct hit. While the black hand, after a few indirect blasts, can get a quick refill and get back to the fight. This works especially well on under and field. In the open the chaingunner will die, but give him cover from the obi and he will give meds hell. From all the non 1000 credit characters this one packs the most punch too. Only real disadvantage is that it will run out of bullets after killing a single med.
