What good is the anti-cheat when you bypass it? If you're going to abuse the security RenGuard provides, meaning that people shouldn't think you're cheating while you're using it, then you're not going to be allowed to use it anymore.

People actually pay money out of their own pockets so that you could use the service. Not to mention the various people and communities that donate their money to help keep RenGuard going. So not only were you ruining games for 100s of people, you were wasting their money as well. Why should your abuse be tolerated?
