Commando no. 448 You see you Americans need to start disagreeing with your president more. Because believe it or not your president can act like an idiot.

I'll disagree with Bush if I see reason to, but if he agrees with my point of view why should I? While I'm sure there's some lemmings out there that do whatever the president says (whoever the president is at the time), I'm not one of them. I've believed we needed to overthrow Saddam ever since I started thinking about stuff like that. That was 5 or 6 years ago. Bush did what I wanted him to do, I didn't just sit back and nod my head because he said so.

I really annoys me when I debate the war in Iraq and someone says I'm just blindly following the president. If anything, he's blindly following what I want him to do.
