Big Grin

Last thing I heard, they told the whole world they were only making enriched uranium. Wich they use for nuclear power plants. This doesn't mean that they also make nuclear missles.

I would advise not to attack without first getting the help of the UN again. It's really not good for international politics, to try and speed up a war against a country with evidence that later appears to be false.

I don't see why you should be afraid of a country, Like Iran in the first place. They have nothing to gain with a war against the western world. A Frontal attack will only mean suicide.

My guess is they are just showing a bit of, with their nuclear projects as a bit of propaganda to their own people.

If you are really afraid of a nuclear war, you should focus more on North Korea than on Iran.
