I have reinstalled multiple times since then, and even with a couple of shallow scratches, I never have any problems with them. I constantly use my Data disk since I never installed a no-CD patch. What it really comes down to is how you store your disks, and how well you care for them.

As for the videos, if you can find someone who's willing to send you 353 MB of .bik files (which you can open with the RAD Video Tools), more power to you.

Euhh, have you ever tried not using any disc. if you don't use any disc it asks if you want to put a disc in. If you press "Cancel", your game will just load. Atleast that what happens for me.
