We use adverts to subsidise the cost of the leagues... they're google adverts, you're in no way forced to click them if you're not interested in what they're offering, and they don't even take up much space.

PackHunter wrote on Fri, 09 June 2006 14:28 My point was that I am not against you making some money in return for running the servs and making the site.

I don't make money from the leagues - I administrate leagues as a volunteer and have never asked to be paid for doing it.

PackHunter wrote on Fri, 09 June 2006 14:28 I just don't want to let you put spam INSIDE Renegade which is what you are basically doing once you are put under a INGAME button. You're going to have to explain this: I honestly do not know what you are talking about.

PackHunter wrote on Fri, 09 June 2006 14:28 I stopped using Gamespy because of commercials a long time ago. people that try to sell stuff I don't want (including you trying to 'sell' your site here) is somewhat annoying to me.

Again, you're in no way obliged to click the adverts. They don't even pop up at you.
