he has a point, think of it if you were in his shoes, would you let someone who clearly hasn't a clue in making objects give him/her your models that you spent your time on for nothing, not even a little credit? Thought not.

But still, is it a pack of trees or just one tree? Because one tree for £15/$25 (approx) is way too much, then again, the owner of the models can/may distribute his models has his own will for any price, weather we accept or decline this offer is our choice and we have no effect in what the owner does with them.
